Stockholders of San Pedro to Elect Officers and Directors.

J. ROSS CLARK TO BE HERE.

Is Expected to Remain Some Days Looking Over Situation-General Manager Bancroft Returns.

J. Ross Clark, second vice president of the San Pedro, Los Angeles & Salt Lake Railroad company, is to arrive from Butte on Monday and will in all probability remain in this city for a few days looking into affairs at this end of the projected line.

Immediately after his arrival here the long-deferred annual meeting of shareholders of the railroad company will be held and the officers and directors for the ensuing year will be elected. While there is nothing definite to be obtained at this time it is not anticipated that here will be any material changes in the existing board.

W. H. BANCROFT RETURNS. Says He Has No Announcements to

Make Regarding Trip. Vice President and Manager W. H. Bancroft of the Oregon Short Line returned last night from his trip to New York. When seen he stated that he had no amouncements to make and further that he knew nothing about any sale of the Oregon Short Line right-of-way south of this city to the San Pedro, or any other road.

While in the East Mr. Bancroft has een spending considerable time with E. H. Harriman and other powers of the syndicate looking into matters pertaining to the protection of the Oregon Short Line interests from encroachments of rivals into territory, both north and south.

While Mr. Bancroft is not talking for publication it is believed that heavy expenditures have been authorized by the New York headquarters and that an active campaign of construction will be inaugurated in Idaho to cover the ground which has already been visited by Burlington and Great Northern surveyors, to say nothing of the territory in southern Utah.

Trans-Continental Freight Bureau to Wrestle With 1000 Questions.

St. Paul, Jan. 18 .- The trans-continental freight bureau has issued a call to seventeen lines it includes for a session in Portland, February 18, at which more than 1,000 questions will be taken up. ## IN INTEREST OF LIVE STOCK

Secretary Martin of National Association Writes Strong Letter.

RELATIVE TO LEGISLATION

Declares That Passage of Grout Bill Will Mean an Annual Loss of $21,-000,000 to Cattle Industry.

Secretary C. F. Martin of the National Livestock association has written Ed. J. Kearnes of Gunnison in this state a letter of some length relative to future congressional action in matters which every stockman is interested. Mr. Martin says:

"The Grout bill, the passage of which at the last session of Congress, was defeated by this association, was reintroduced at the beginning of the present session under the names of the McCleary Tawney and Davidson bills; and the passage of either one of these measures means a loss to the cattle industry alone of $21,000,000 annually. Congressman Grosvenor of Ohio, in be-half of this association, has introduced into the House a bill providing for in-spection of manufactured woolen goods in the interest of the consumer and grower of wool. This association has grover of wool, this assessment has also caused to be introduced a bill pro-viding for government aid in reclaim-ing the arid and semi-arid lands of the West through irrigation projects, and one amending the interstate commerce act so as to give the interstate comcommission power to enforce its own rulings.

The stock interests of the nation also demand an annual classified census of livestock; a just and permanent settlement of the question of grazing on for est reserves; that the government ad tot some plar looking to improvement in the breeding of cavalry horses; and just treatment for the agricultural and just treatment for the agricultural and livestock press at the hands of the postoffice department.

The manufacturers will move at this session of Congress for free wool and hides. This association is not only unterably opposed to this, but demands that no hides of whatsoever class or weight shall be admitted free. In prosecuting the oleomargarine matter before Congress, the association will have a Congress, the association will have a majority of the Senate and House committees on agriculture against it, and we have been served with notice from the leaders of the "dairy combine" that unless our opposition to their bills is withdrawn, this influence will make war on every measure in which the stockmen is interested." The letter further states that these matters are in the hands of Judge Springer at Washington, and urges organization in every congressional district in the interests of the stockmen and the writing of letters to congressmen uiging them to support all such measures as are favorable to the livestock interests of the country. Sec-retary Martin also says: "Upon the result of the present campaign will depend to a large extent your future influence in Washington."

The delegation was excerted by Representative William Alden Smith of Michigan. They presented the President with a memorial which calls his attention to the plank in the Republican platform of 1896, condemning the Democratic administration for not Democratic administration for not keeping faith with the sugar growers of the country, and its redemption in the enactment of the Dingley law in July, 1897.

The President stated to the delegation that this country should do something for Cuba, whereupon Mr. Smith, on behalf of the delegation, urged that the beet sugar industry should not bear the brunt of this country's gencrosity. They were willing that some-thing should be done, but did not want their industry destroyed.

PEOPLE WHO ARE PASSING

George Fisher gives out some additional and interesting information about conditions in the Philippine isl-ands. The natives told him that the Americans had done the Filipinos a great deal of good, in the way of schools, reduction of taxes, cleaner etreets, better business facilities and other things, but what puzzled them was that they had been brought into contact with a people who do nothing but fight, and as fighting was the oc-cupation of Americans, it was a prob-lem to the natives how they were going to get along with such a nation You see," said Mr. Fisher, "that the Filipinos have only seen American diers, and imagine in their simplicity that they constitute the whole push, and that the rest of the American people are soldiers also.

W. M. Cole returned last evening from an extended business trip through the Grand Valley in Colorado. He says the way the peach orchards are grow-ing in that country is something astonishing. Growers no longer buy sin-gle or small bunches of trees, but buy for the acre, the number being 160 trees to the acre. Growers are in fact buying with the intention of planting any-where from 10 to 25 acres in addition to their already large holdings for the coming season. Mr. Cole says that all up and down the valley where only a few years ago the soil was entirely given over to sage brush, it is now set out to peach trees; and the soil is so well adapted to peach raising that here is no telling to what extent the growing of this luscious fruit may be carried. There is no scarcity of water, or likely to be any because the Grand river is tapped up in the canyon and that river never runs dry.

self governing nation are among the interesting subjects that engage the attention of the administration and congress. Secretary Root, who has had the direction of Cuban affairs so long. has a certain amount of confidence in the ultimate peace and prosperity of the island, although his intimate Ephraim Madsen, charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to do bodily harm, was arraigned before Judge Stewart this morning and allowed to go on his own recognization. knowledge of all the conditions causes say that the long strife with Spain, followed by peace under the direction of the United States, has shown the Cubans that the latter method is much better than the former. It is known that Secretary Root fears some disturbances will occur if the Cubans fail to get the commercial concessions from the United States which they a so anxious to obtain, and for reason he has been urging the congressmen who discuss the subject with him to take early action in this di-rection. It is urged that independence alone will not start the industries of the island, which have been stagnated by the unquite times. The administration believes that continued peace, followed by prosperity, will only be assured by closer trade relations between the old republic and the new. republic and the new. All these ques-tions are being talked about, while each successive step toward free and independent Cuba is watched with keen interest.

PAN-AMERICAN RUMORS.

Rumors of various shades reach Washington from the pan-American congress assembled in Mexico to the effect that while there has been a vast deal to talk there has been mighty little success. With four South Ameris not to be expected that much amity could flow from these quarters, and it met a decidely chilly reception. With reciprocity treaties hung up in the senate for nearly two years and little prospect of their being favorably acted upon, the United States, through her delegates, could not have very much to say. But what has been ap-parent to all who have closely watched the progress of events among the countries south of us came out more point edly at the present conference—that is, that the Latin-American countries do not like the United States. They are jealous of our prestige, do not like our assumption of the word "American" and resent the semiprotection which we assume over them in their rela-tions to European countries. It is a fact that we do not have much in com-mon with the South American people and they realize it when they see that our commercial relations are almost wholly with Europe and Asia. SOME PHILIPPINE DIFFICUL-

It is found more difficult to adjust the Philippine legislation than was at first supposed. With Porto Rico con gress was venturing upon an unknown sea, as no one was sure the legislation would be upheld. Now there have been supreme court decisions on al-most every phase of our insular gov-ernment, and yet the legislators are somewhat preplexed as to the method to proceed with the Philip-pines. The fact that the islands are still unpacified, that the treaty provi-sion with Spain was different from that regarding Porto Rico and the further fact that the Philipinos are a far different people from the Porto Ricans makes the task of legislating either in the matter of revenue or government. ernment much more difficult than that of providing for one small island. senate committee on insular af-fairs, as well as the officials of the war department, have been giving the whole matter careful consideration.

Sometimes it is one committee and then another that takes the lead in importance in the house during a session of congress. When the Spanish war was imminent, it was the foreign affairs; when a tariff measure is to passed, ways and means comes to the front; in an ordinary session appropriations takes the lead, and so it goes. In this Congress the interstate and foreign commerce committee promises to deal with the most important subjects considered. Already it has con-sidered the Nicaragua canal bill and now it has four other important sub-jects before it. These are the Pacific cable bill, legislation for which is al-most sure to pass; the pure food bill, behind which there is a determined force; the bill to create a new depart-ment of commerce and industries and a number of bills to amend the interstate commerce law, this involving railroad legislation. While all these measures may not pass, it is the in-tention of the committee to bring them before the house or at least to give them all that careful consideration which they merit. It is very hard to pass a pure food bill of any kind, and it is also to be doubted whether there can be any railroad legislation, but if the committee puts through bills for a canal, a cable and a new department it will be a good record.
